TURMOIL IN LISBON

Widespread Revolution Impending in Portugal.

MONARCHISTS DESERT KING

Reservists Mobilized in Anticipation of Conflict with the Prospective Rebels-Mutiny in Garrison and Fleet, While Crown Prince Is Banished to Villa Vicosa.

The movement against absolutism in Portugal has assumed such dimensions that the country, according to Madrid telegrams, is on the brink of revolution. The Portuguese authorities are rigorously censoring all telegrams, but news has reached Madrid that many Monarchists have deserted King Carlos, and that the army reservists have been mobilized in anticipation of a conflict with the revolu-

It is even declared that the Lisbon garrison and the crews of the war ships in the harbor have mutinied. The prisons the harbor and a cruiser as prison ships

Meanwhile, the King remains in his palace, guarded by loyal troops; the Crown Prince is exiled at Villa Vicosa because he suggested that his father should either abolish the dictatorship or abdicate, and Prince Miguel of Braganza, the Portuguese pretender, who is in Aus tria, is closely following the situation hoping that the overthrow of the present government may bring him to the throne

Mutiny in Garrison and Fleet. Madrid, Dec. 14.-The news from Portugal is increasingly grave, and there is every indication that the country is on the brink of revolution.

at Merrington Green

Shrewsbury, Conducted in "Gypsy

Tent," Where Village Women

Gather for Strange Religious Ser-

London, Dec. 14.-Merrington Green,

Shrewsbury, was to-night the scene of strange proceedings. A mission was conducted in the "Gypsy Tent," and a number of village women did what is now

locally known as "speaking in cloven

Wesley Baker, the mission preacher, is absolutely sincere, and his following of men and women are equally simple and honest, but if one is to speak honestly,

ne cannot describe the "cloven-tongue manifestations as anything but a half-crazy delusion on the part of people who Starts with Simple Ceremony.

For a couple of hours or more the service went on in a simple, ordinary,

There was nothing to wonder at anc nothing to cavil at. Men and women

At 9:30, while all were kneeling, an old woman took up the praying, and a

"Oh, my God, hear prayer!" he cried.

gara-nabba-gabba-para - gaba-gabba-

and incoherent sounds, which sounder

Work Themselves Into Frenzy.

Mr. Baker walked about expectantly for a few moments while the old woman's gabble turned into a murmur. The "reformed worst character" shouted a prayer, while a few of the kneeling women seemed to be "working themselves up" to a pitch of excitement. Others

It was now like a scene in Bedlam.

Men were beating their breasts and cult to believe that the so-called cloven tempt to make some sound that should

For half an hour the gabble proceeded without further result, and Mr. Baker at

OIL KING IS DEFENDED.

British Writer Finds Some Good

Qualities in J. D. Rockefeller.

come to John D. Rockkkefeller's defense.

king, but he does say he thinks most of the people who attack the latter are attending to what really is none of their

I know of him comes from what I have heard from an American who was by no

"So far as I can perceive, he has not

he seems to be their superior in the way he spends his money. He has followed the usual methods of multi-millionaires.

"At least, he is no snob, which is in

"I cannot say I particularly admire his type of man, but I can see no reason why

FRENCH DEPUTY IN ARMY.

Loses His Seat in Chamber for Not

Complying with Military Law.

was recently elected deputy for Die, in

When the ex-deputy was called to the theological student about to take holy orders, he benefited by the two years seminarists. But on leaving the army he abandoned his theological studies, and with the obligations of the military law.

became a duly authorized clergym

soldier of the line.

emission of service accorded to all the Paris, Dec. 14.-M. Archimbaud, who he should be regarded as a criminal.'

read in stray newspapers and what I the shade.

London, Dec. 14.-Henry La Bucher has

He isn't very enthusiastic over the oil slaughter houses.

tongues were anything but a crazy atter of a woman in a corner.

pitiful enough.

seem unearthly.

simple way.

business.

and entirely admirable way, just as one vices-Meaningless Words.

Beneath Stone in Tower.

Englishman, who lives at Arcis, is to make a search for mysterious treasure buried by one of his ancestors in that portion of the wall of Joan of Arc's

tower at Rouen which formed the old

The treasure had been a family tradition, but its whereabouts was unknown.

Mr. Wigglesworth states that one of his ancestors was a Bailie, or Moyar, of Rouen at the time when the town be longed to the English. He says that he discovered quite recently some papers which prove that treasures belonging to his family were hidden in several places

One place indicated was a hole in the

Joan of Arc tower, covered by a stone

on which the word "Open" was cut in English. The place was examined, and a

Mr. Wigglesworth has had photographs taken of all the places indicated, and in every case the photograph shows that the brickwork has been interfered with at

He has written to the ministry of fine

Indo-China Reports Storm.

One as Big as a Man's Head-Another Weighs Three-quarters of a Pound-Cattle Killed.

Paris, Dec. 14.-One of the most re-stones were about the size of hens' eggs,

Stranger in the Lions' Den.

in the ruins of the old town of Rouen.

dungeon of the castle.

Mr. Wigglesworth.

treasure, if he can find it.

servatory in Indo-China.

large as walnuts.

the performance.

traordinary display of country utterly devastated.

Paris, Dec. 14.-Mr. Wigglesworth, an

It has been rumored here since yesterday morning that both the Lisbon garrison and the crews of the Portugues squadron now lying in the Tagus have mutinied and joined the revolutionaries Confirmation is impossible because of the rigorous measures adopted by the Portuguese government to prevent news being sent abroad.

The report of the mutiny in the fleet was first published by the Madrid journal El Mundo, and afterward repeated in trustworthy political circles. Telegrams are said to have been received from the Spanish Minister at Lisbon emphasizing the gravity of the situation.

According to the Liberal, all the neservists have been called out, and the for months have been nightly praying in stone was found bearing the letters "en" the last two letters of the word "Open." Liberal adds that European intervention, in the name of progress and humanity, will undoubtedly be necessary.

The Liberal insists that the Crown Prince was banished from Lisbon to Villa might expect in any village community. Vicosa because the Prince urged his father either to abolish the present dictatorship or abdicate in his favor. The gave "testimonies" in a sincere, unaf-Prince is said to have the support of a fected, and obviously deeply religious bearing the letters "en" and secure the number of revolutionary leaders as well spirit. as the Conservatives.

The King's Position.

According to an uncensored letter just crooning chorus filled the cabin, while Mr. received via Badajoz, many Monarchists Baker walked to a bench and kneeled who have hitherto upheld King Carlos' down. policy are now deserting him and joining the Conservatives, who demand the aboli- At length the old woman began spe

The Conservatives are thus increasing seemed to be merely an incoherent gal rapidly in power, and a decisive move is ble of syllables like "Para-gara-para-

The palace at Lisbon is surrounded by cara-gabba." This seemed to be what loyal troops. King Carlos is practically the little meeting had been waiting for. a prisoner, having been advised not to go and there began a fusillade of praying into the city during the present unrest. Business in the capital is at a standstill. Hundreds of arrests have been made by the authorities. The civil and military prisons are full, and it is rumored that political suspects are now being quartered on two old transports in

A number of wealthy business men are sending their families to Madrid, in an- smiled at the "pappa-rappa" gabble of ticipation of rioting, and refugees are the old woman and the "cackling" chat-

Papers Suppressed.

Ten daily newspapers have been suppressed in Lisbon and Oporto for at- women were gabbling, and it was diffitempting to publish accounts of the unrest and the progress of the Republican movement. Six of these journals are Monarchist and the other four Republi-

The Official Gazette contains two im- length wound up with an ordinary prayer portant decrees dealing with the unrest, delivered in a thoroughly sincere and The first has prolonged the restrictive measures against the press, which be came operative last June. The second creates an extraordinary tribunal for dealing summarily with revolutionaries.

This tribunal is composed of a judge of the Lisbon Criminal Court and two assoclates, and is authorized to try, without a jury, any persons accused of plots against the government.

Every foreign telegram leaving Portugal is carefully examined, and those dealing with political events unfavorable to the government are suppressed. Many ordinary commercial messages, not in incarnation of Dives, Shylock, Judas, and continuous blaze. A remarkable rise of cipher, have been held up as well, thus Jonathan Wilde," he says, in Truth. "All temperature marked the storm, the thercausing serious inconvenience.

Pretender Watching Events.

Wienna, Dec. 14.-The supporters of means his admirer. Prince Miguel of Braganza, the Portuguese pretender, are much encouraged by acted differently from others who have the reports of the dynastic crisis in Por- devoted themselves to money making, and

They consider that the establishment of a republic would ultimately result in That is all that can be said against him Prince Miguel being summoned to the throne. However, the strong position taken by the crown prince excites the fear that the latter may bring about his so, why should he not. father's deposition and his own elevation to the throne.

Prince Miguel is now at Bad Kreuth, Bavaria, where he has been invited by his sister, the Duchess Karl Theodore, to meet the German crown prince at a Great efforts have been made by Prince Miguel's party during the last month to raise funds for their propaganda, but without much success.

the Drome department, has lost his seat Prince Miguel of Braganza is the eldest in the Chamber on a curious point of gon of the late Dom Mignel, who usurped electoral law. In addition to this, he the throne of Portugal in 1828, but was will have to do an extra two years' milidefeated and forced to abdicate in 1834. tary service, commencing forthwith. prince resides in Vienna with his wife, who is a princes of Lowenstein. colors some years ago as a Protestant

SUSPECTS DEPORTED.

Portuguese Ex-Minister Declares that Civil War Is Impending.

Paris, Dec. 14.-A Madrid telegram to when the validity of his election was the Echo de Paris states that 300 ar- challenged he was unable to produce rests have been made at Lisbon in con- university degree or to show that he had sequence of the discovery of bombs, and the prisoners placed on board a cruiser, on the ground that he had not compiled

The Gil Blas publishes an interview with a Portuguese ex-Minister who arrived in Paris from Lisbon last night. He declared that a civil war was impend-

King and Queen of Portugal, Crown Prince and Dictator. CLAIMS THIRD OF MIDDLESEX SAD SEQUEL TO A WEDDING

Annual Incomes of Ten Million Dol- German Count Marries Daughter of lars from Estate Which Is to Be Contested.

Hopes to Obtain Fortune.

London, Dec. 14.-The claimant to the Page millions-an estate covering one- bach was yesterday seized at Frankfortthird of the county of Middlesex and on-Main, and carried off to a lunatic valued at $750,000,000, with an annual asylum. He violently resisted his caprevenue of $10,000,000-arrived in London tors, and after being overpowered, at-some distant date. One of the statues in the tower, of which a photograph has been taken, is that of an ancestor of George Horton Morris, who is accompanied by his wife and daughter, comes is fortunes to a company, which has diate release. property which extends over sixty square miles north and west from the Marble null and void. The value of these possessions nearly one-third of the county of Middlemarkable storms on record is reported sex, several important suburbs of London, and some of the most valuable res-

by M. Cadet, director of the Central Obidential districts in the West End. He says the storm arose in the Mai Pha The Page estate dates from the sup-Mountains, and swept over many miles pression of the monasteries by Henry of country, ruining all the crops, wreck-VIII, who gave to Ye Noble Robert Page ing buildings wholesale, and leaving the the lands of the Knights of St. John in Kilburn. The property, increased by suc-The hailstones were of enormous size cessive generations, finally came into the and at the village of Phalma the roofs of possession of Henry Page, who lived in all the buildings were pierced by them, London and left to solicitors the adminthe holes varying from six to eight inches istration of his small kingdom. Since his At Langson, two miles away, a stone controlled by a board of trustees, and a proposal has been made in the House of s large as a man's head was picked up after the storm. Dr. Portal, a Fren Commons that is should be escheated to marry the girl when he came of age. medical man, secured a stone which turned the scale at three-quarters of a sions.

pound. Many others were secured which During the last half century many porweighed from a quarter to a half a pound When the hail first began to fall the ### BRIDE BOUGHT BY WEIGHT but they increased in size as the storm progressed. M. Cadet states that some of She Tips Scale at 86 Pounds and Is the stones had kernels of flinty ice as "Worth" $54.

Great numbers of cattle grazing in the fields were killed by the hail, and some ked, a Hungarian village, has acted as 250,000 DEATHS FROM PLAGUE. arbitrator in a dispute about the value of a bride.

The storm was accompanied by an exlightning, the It is the custom in the district for the flashes succeeding one another so rapidly bridegroom to pay a sum to the bride's that the blinding light appeared to be parents, and in the case in dispute the continuous. M. Cadet says that the enparties could not agree on the amount. parties could not agree on the amount.

The mayor, who is a cattle dealer, was called in, and, after inspecting the bride, he declared that she was worth half a crown a pound, and that Koetvoes, the mometer registering nearly 100 degrees in bridegroom, who is a well-to-do peasant, God. must pay at that rate.

The verdict was accepted by both par-London, Dec. 14.-A Yarmouth licensed menagerie and remained there throughout voes paid $54, and the wedding ceremony

Backed by Syndicate, Australian Love Romance Ends in an Insane Asylum at Frankfort-on-Main.

> Washerwoman and Thereby Forfeits Vast Fortune.

Berlin, Dec. 14.-Count Erasmus Ertempted on the way to the asylum to es-from Katoomba, in the Blue Mountains, perfectly sane, and that his seizure is ilfrom Katoomba, in the Blue Mountains, perfectly sane, and the his seizure is inAustralia, to claim wealth beyond the legal. His lawyers have made an appliOn one occasion when he called the De Bernart to the grotto. reams of avarice. He has committed cation in the high court for his imme-

French Director of Observation in died in 1829, leaving no direct heirs to the pretty plebelan daughter of a wash-

The love story of the young count and may be imagined by drawing a line from his bride is of the most romantic char- nearly a year. the Marble Arch up Edgware road acter. Count Erasmus is the heir to all the Marble Arch up Edgware road through Hendon to Elstree Station, across the borders of Rickmansworth, to a point some miles south of Uxbridge, and the wealth and possessions of one of the most famous German families. His father's annual income is said to reach father's return to Paris, one dark night, back to Hyde Park by Southall, Acton, and Notting Hill. This area comprises with castles on them, as well as magni- vard Montparnasse, he was waylaid by ficent residences in Berlin, Munich; and three men, who fatally stabbed him, and Vienna.

The prospect of one day possessing all eighteen years of age he was riding in the forest at Erbach when he met the young girl who was to become his wife. They both fell in love at first sight, and meetings followed. was only a washerwoman's daughter, and herit him if he had more to do with her while her father and mother were equaldeath without issue the estate has been ly strenuous in their opposition to the Count Erasmus declared that he would the crown and employed on old-age pen- When that time arrived he eloped with his lowly sweetheart in a motor car, and crossing the French frontier, went to tions of the estate have been leased or London via Parls, where they were mar-

When the marriage became known to Count Erasmus' friends, his father called a family council, at which it was decided that Count Erasmus should be disinherited and regarded as an outlaw un-

Fanaticism of Mahometans Results in Terrible Expatriation.

Lahore, Dec. 14.-It is estimated that a quarter of a million Mahometans have dled of plague in the Punjaub, solely because they refused to leave infected villages, on the ground that Mahometans service. are forbidden to flee from the wrath of

The principal maulyis (law doctors) of the Punjaub have now issued a fatwa London, Dec. 14.—A Yarmouth licensed ties, and the bride was weighed, and (judicial decision), declaring that the victualer entered the lions' den of a found to scale at eighty-six pounds. Koet- Korean expressly enjoins Mahometans to

DRUCE CASE REVIVED

by Frenchwoman.

GUARD WELL SECRET PACKET

Mme, Valette Tells of Visitor to Her Shop Four Years After Druce's Alleged Death-Still Has Mysterious Envelope and Is Ignorant of Its Contents-May Be Called as Witness.

Paris, Dec. 14.-The Druce claim to the ukedom of Portland may be materially can be verified. She is named Mme Valette, and she announces that she is a of the Baker street bazaar.

extraordinary one. In the first quarter of the last century there was a hotel in the first quarter of the last century there was a hotel in the last century the l of the last century there was a hotel in possessed. At the same time he took the Champs Elysses, which was fre- from my person all my valuables, worth quented by Mr. Druce, as he was known. $225. He then left me, and it was night Druce fell desperately in love with the before I was released." landlady of the hotel, and, in course of time, a son was born to them, who took his father's name. Mr. Druce paid for gand, not being able to read the address the boy's education, and for many years on the letter, handed it to his accomplice, gave his mother a certain allowance. the policeman, who took it to Signor Druce's natural son married, and became the father of Mme. Valette.

A Remarkable Story.

The count's friends icclare that he is Paris, and always called to see his son were confirmed. He sent his clerk, Mr. his fortunes to a company, which has subscribed $50,000 to investigate his title.

Mr. Morris asserts that he is the grandson of a brother of Henry Page, who consider his insane because he married to money, and directed him to go to Australia and seek the whereabouts of a half-brother, presumably the father of half-brother, presumably the father of half-brother. Mme. Valette's and turned to France after an absence of saying the brigand was one Ettore Gang

Now comes the remarkable part of the yielded. carried off important papers relating to this wealth was voluntarily surrendered Paris soon after this, and was terribly Mr. Druce, of Baker street, came to distressed at the news of the death his natural son. He gave into the hands of Mme. Valette a sealed envelope, which he bade her guard carefully. had heard of the death of Mr. Druce, of the Baker street bazaar, and, naturally fully expected never to see her grand-

Duke Turns Up.

But one day-she is unable to fix the She was instantly killed. But one day—she is unable to fix the exact date or the year, but says it was that the woman was dead, he desperately Boolevard Montparnasse. On her ex- her screams attracted a great crowd, who pressing astonishment, the visitor replied, began to deal blows on the unf mildly, "Yes, Druce is dead, but Portland is still living."

Montparnasse, and she says that she has to prison, and his wife, in a fainting state, still in her possession the mysterious en-velope handed to her many years ago, and that she is ignorant of its contents. She purposes forwarding this to the legal advisers of George Hollamby Bruce. She is a sharp-looking, clear-spoken woman, and very vigorous, in spite of her years. Her husband died three years ago. She has two daughters and a son, and the latter is now performing his military

LURED TO JAIL BY TELEGRAM. Wealthy Dealer Accused of Smuggling Art Across Frontier. Rome, Dec. 14.-A wealthy art dealer to Sweden the great Gustavus Adol with a charge of defrauding the customs in the passage of art works over the Italian frontier to Lugano (which is in Switzerland) declares his entire innocence and ignorance of the recent thefts. cence and ignorance of the recent thefts peror, in 1853. of art works from the churches of Tus- She became Queen consort when Albert who has an extremely valuable gallery of old masters and other antiquities, has been accustomed to dispose of them in England and elsewhere. During the winter season he has carried on his business in the Riviera.

The Italian police allege that he was concerned in the recent thefts from Tus-can churches, and that the treasures Toselli. were taken to Lugano. As Italian law forbids the export of such works of art, the vigilance of the customs had to be evaded. The boundary between Italy and Switzerland at Lugano is partly in the lake and partly on the mountains, and smuggling is regularly indulged in. The dealer was lured to Como by the police by means of a false telegram, and there he was arrested at the railway station. He has been taken to the prison at Florence, where he has made a written declaration of his innecessary than the $75,000, too. All of his friends there he was arrested at the railway written declaration of his innocence.

Rio Janerio, Dec. 14.—A great invasion of locusts has occurred in Argentina, the British legation at Tangier. The be spreading over all parts of the country. dit and his followers are understood to A government communique, however, be bringing McLean to the city now. The states that the insects can no longer kaid was negotiating with Raisouli for narm the wheat crop, cutting having al- the latter's surrender when the outlaw ready begun in the northern zone in the raised a cry of treachery, seized Sir provinces of Santa Fe and Cordoba. The Harry and retreated into his mountain pest is being fought successfully, and it is fastnesses, where he has held his prisoner toped that the maize crop will not be se- for months. McLean is a Scot sixty years

TORTURE A MARQUIS

Brigands Lure Italian Nobleman to Deep Grotto.

POLICEMAN IS IMPLICATED

Marquis Cito Maltreated in Effort to Obtain Ransom-Has Teeth Extracted and Lamps Held to Soles of His Naked Feet-Forced to Write Letter to His Landlady.

Naples, Dec. 14.-The Marquis Cito, brother of the master of ceremonies at King Victor Emmanuel's court, has been seized, imprisoned in an underground grotto, and maltreated so badly that he is compelled to keep to his bed.

In September last a certain policeman made inquiries about one of the many grottoes dug in stone in the neighborhood of Naples. He said he desired to use it as a storehouse, and a short while ago hired a grotto at the end of an orchard, reached by a rocky pathway and a subterranean staircase going down thirty eet. He told the marquis, who is connected with the well-known antiquary, Signor Canessa, that he had been exca-Bogus Burial Tale Borne Out light an ancient pistol in a gold and ivory vating in this grotto and had brought to

Yesterday morning early the marquis, accompanied by the policeman, arrived at the grotto. The cabman who had driven the marquis to the gate of the orchard waited many hours for his return, and at last drove back to town. He alarmed Signor Canessa, who immediately, with policemen and carabiniers, repaired to the grotto, the entrance of which was firmly closed and barred.

Brigands' Escape.

Forcing it open, they found the marquis gagged and bound, wounded and nearly choked. On being conveyed to the city and revived, the marquis said:

The policeman left me before the strengthened, if the story related by a grotto alone. Immediately I was seized oman of sixty, now living in Paris, from behind, and after a sharp struggle with my unseen assailant I was carried down with herculean force and tightly lesendant—the granddaughter, in fact—of bound. Then, liberating my right arm, the fifth duke of Portland, who is al- the brigand fetched a lamp and writing leged to have masqueraded as Mr. Druce, materials, covering his face with a hood like those used in funeral processions. Mme. Valette's story is certainly an Threatening me with instant death, he Policeman an Accomplice. So far as can be ascertained, the bri-

Canessa, saying that he must deliver it himself to the marquis' landlady. No sooner was he gone than the cabman ar-Druce's son paid periodical visits to rived, and Signor Canessa's suspicions father and son had a long interview. Mr. Green, arriving at the house, found father carried out his mission, and re- named Giuseppe Rossi, gave himself up,

To force the marguis to consent to write the letter, the kidnappers tore out all his teeth one by one. Still refusing were held to the soles of his naked feet. MOTOR CAR KILLS WOMAN.

Driver Tries to End Life, but Policeman Prevents Him. Naples, Dec. 14.-A fatal motor-car accident had an extraordinary sequel in the Riviera di Cheaia yesterday. Signor Then he Domenico Cagiati, an advocate, was drivwent off, and she did not see him again ing in his four-horsepower car at about for many years. In the meantime she twelve miles an hour, when an elderly woman zigzagged across the street. He put on all the brakes, and the woman could easily have saved herself had she not, in her fright, run in front of the car.

about four years after the close of the drew out of his pocket a small revolver France-Prussian war—the man whom she and was aiming at his head when a thought was dead walked into the little policeman held his arm just in time. tobacconist's shop which she kept in the Signor Caglati's wife was with him, and couple. The crowd then turned its fury on the car, damaging it with blows of sticks, so that a company of soldiers had Mme. Valette is living in a modestly to be placed around it. Signor Cagiati, urnished apartment near the Gare pending the legal examination, was taken was carried home

QUEEN CAROLA IS DYING. Last of Royal House of Vasa, and Aunt of Present King.

Dresden, Dec. 14.-The condition of Queen Carola, widow of King Albert of Saxony, who is suffering from nephritis, is hopeless. The last sacraments have been administered, and the Queen is not expected to live throughout the day.

Oneen Carola of Saxony was the last of the royal house of Vasa, which gave who was arrested at Come in connection | She was the daughter of Prince Gustav rany.

ascended the Saxon throne in 1873, and reigned until his death, in 1902. Carola was childless, and, therefore, George, the brother of Albert, succeeded to the throne. Queen Carola, therefore, was the aunt of the present King of Saxony, Frederick August, whose wife, Louise of Austria, now the Countess Montignoso, eloped with the tutor of her children, Giron, and afterward married the Italian musician

RAISOULI TO GET $100,000.

Big Ransom Will Be Paid for Release of Kaid Harry McLean.

Paris, Dec. 14.-Raisouli, the Moroccan bandit, has agreed with the British gov ernment on terms for the release of Kaid Harry McLean.

now in prison are to be set free and pro tection is guaran, of by the British gov-ernment to Raisouli and all his family.

TWO QUEENS PLAYING GAME OF BILLIARDS. This photograph gives an interesting glimpse of the home life of Queen Alexandra of England and her sister, the Dowager Czarina, at their beautiful Danish home, near Copenhagen. The Villa Holdore was recently purchased for the royal sisters, and they have just concluded their first visit to it.